A Yeah.

Q Did you use any -- what did you do when you had to go out of the room when you --

A I bought a set of baby monitors, and I had one in the bedroom and one in my kitchen, because we are all on one floor. And if he needed me, he would either hit the table, or yell through the monitor.

And then I would have to go see what he wanted, but he wouldn't let me out of the room that long to do anything. He wanted me right there beside him.

Q And did you stay beside him?

A Yeah, I did. My daughter did all of the grocery shopping, all of the cooking, the wash, and I had to sit in the bedroom. I sat in a rocking chair.

Q Was it a problem changing his sheets when he was confined to bed?

A It was hard doing it. He used to beg me not to change the sheet because it hurt to move.

Q Was he -- what was your understanding from the doctors, or your husband, about how long he would
