Mr. Harry A. Mack,
Ethyl Corporation,
Mutual Home Building,
Dayton1, Ohio.

Dear Mr. Mack:

I am forwarding to you herewith two copies of an analytical report on the sample of scale referred to in your letter of July 19.

I send the two copies, since you may wish to transmit all of the information on this point to the New York office.

Considering the very low organic lead content of this scale, it is quite apparent that there is no significant exposure involved. On the other hand, if this material were suspended in the air in the form of dust, there might be a significant concentration of lead of the inorganic variety. It is interesting to recognize that dusts containing such minute concentrations of organic lead compounds are capable of producing irritation of the eyes and nose.

Thanks very much for sending us this material.

Very truly yours,

---

Robert A. Kehoe, M. D.
