S/P2 Mechanical Pollution Prevention Asbestos

Older Brake Cleaning Systems May Not Comply

Brake cleaning systems that use solvents may no longer comply with OSHA "Occupational Exposure to Asbestos" regulations. OSHA now allows low pressure/wet cleaning. This allows brake parts with friction material and rubber to be completely wetted and cleaned before they're taken apart. The wetting process helps control asbestos and other dangerous dust fibers from becoming airborne.

