Gentlemen:

Can you send us information on the following:

1. Latest Industrial Commission regulations regarding medical examinations, respirators, work clothes, and ventilating systems for the people who handle small quantities of red lead and litharge (but are not engaged in the manufacture of these compounds).
2. What is the maximum amount of radiation to which people can be exposed in connection with industrial operations? We have in mind particularly radiation from X-ray sources operating at about 25,000 volts.

If you have any printed materials covering the above, could you send us three copies of each?

Sincerely yours,

W. G. Hazard
