Among other topics, I was wondering whether you might be interested in one or more speaking opportunities. I regularly work with Chemical Watch to identify the best speakers for its programs. The full list is at: <https://chemicalwatch.com/events/> There are three upcoming programs that I thought might be of interest.

1. Regulatory Summit USA, October 31 – Nov. 1 in Crystal City. <https://events.chemicalwatch.com/60006/regulatory-summit-usa> This is a fairly large conference of about 150 attendees. If you would be interested in giving a keynote, luncheon presentation or just a Q & A, I am confident it can be arranged. It could be a good opportunity to speak to a broad audience.

2. Biocides USA, November 6-7 in San Francisco, CA. <https://events.chemicalwatch.com/60009/biocides-usa> I am chairing this meeting of about 100 attendees. It is focused on antimicrobial regulation, but if you were interested in attending, we could adjust the program so you could speak on any topic you think worthwhile. Chemical Watch would extend a formal invitation and will pay travel/lodging costs.

3. Regulatory Summit Asia, November 21-22 in Singapore. <https://events.chemicalwatch.com/60014/regulatory-summit-asia-2018> This is a well-attended regional conference. It could be a great opportunity to explain developments under TSCA and/or at OCSP to an Asian audience. I have spoken at this conference in the past and, if you go, would make an effort to be there. That said, it is over Thanksgiving, so could be inconvenient. If you're interested, Chemical Watch would extend a formal invitation and will pay travel and lodging.

In addition to these speaking possibilities, I thought we might catch up on developments generally. Nothing urgent.

Hope to catch up soon.

Seth

Seth,
I'm on a crop tour in eastern Washington—dry and hot (100degrees).
Schedule is challenging.

Can we try again this week or next? Perhaps either late or early? I can call at 7:30 tomorrow if that works.

Regret the scheduling difficulties and appreciate your flexibility.

Seth,
Happy to chat. Schedule is nuts, before 8:30 or after 5 is usually best.

I thought we might discuss a couple of conferences – one in Singapore and one in DC – and catch up generally. I am around today, Thursday PM and Friday, and most of next week.

Hope all is well.
