Dear Doctor Kehoe:

Your letter of November 15 addressed to the Executive Council of the Journal of the Royal Institute of Public Health and Hygiene has come to my attention at Williams & Wilkins. You are quite right that the publishers of the Harben Lectures should be contacted with regard to your idea of book publication of the materials from the early 1960's. Unfortunately, we cannot identify a journal or the Harben publications as a Williams & Wilkins' product. I did check with our printing division to see whether perhaps they had printed the Journal or still do, and their response was also negative.

I expect that the material to which you refer is probably filed somewhere in our system under the name of the senior editor of the project, and without knowing that we cannot proceed here.

Therefore, it would help me greatly if you could send me a Xerox copy of the title page of the Journal or of the Harben Lectures from 1960 or anything that you have that shows our company name on it. By seeing that I can figure out where it is in our system and then be back to you.

I am sorry we were not able to help you immediately, but I have not been able to come up with anyone in the company whose memory is accurate back to the early 1960's.

Cordially,

Sara A. Finnegan
