Subject: Information for Congressional Quarterly Press' Washington Information Directory- Due Wednesday 2/14!

To Whom It May Concern:

I am a researcher for the Congressional Quarterly Press, which is in the process of updating its Washington Information Directory, a reference book used mainly in congressional offices and public library reference rooms. There is no charge for this listing. Please let me know if the information for your organization/office(s) below is accurate or of any changes you would like us to make. If a description is inaccurate, please let me know what details should be changed. Since we are a reference book, we will make only factual changes as our space is limited and we wish to avoid PR statements. If you expect any of the information to change before April 16, 2018, please note that as well. As we are on deadline, IF I DO NOT HEAR FROM YOUR OFFICE BY WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 2018, I will take this as confirmation that the information is correct as it is. Thank you very much for your help.

1. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA)

Environment and Natural Resources / Pollution and Toxins / General / Agencies

Administers federal environmental policies, research, and regulations, provides information on environmental subjects, including water pollution, pollution prevention, hazardous and solid waste disposal, air and noise pollution, pesticides and toxic substances, and radiation.

8. Environmental Protection Agency
(EPA), Chemical Safety and
Pollution Prevention (OCSPP),
Pollution Prevention and Toxics

Environment and Natural Resources / Pollution and Toxins / Hazardous Materials / Agencies

Assesses the health and environmental hazards of existing chemical substances and mixtures; collects information on chemical use, exposure, and effects; maintains inventory of existing chemical substances; reviews new chemicals and regulates the manufacture, distribution, use, and disposal of harmful chemicals. Implements the Toxic Substances Control Act and the Pollution Prevention Act. Selects and implements control measures for new and existing chemicals that present a risk to human health and the environment. Oversees and manages regulatory evaluation and decision-making processes. Evaluates alternative remedial control measures under the Toxic Substances Control Act and makes recommendations concerning the existence of unreasonable risk from exposure to chemicals, including pesticides and fungicides. Develops generic and chemical-specific rules for new chemicals. Operates the toxic substance hotline.

Environment and Natural Resources / Pollution and Toxins / General / Agencies

Manages programs on pollution prevention and new and existing chemicals in the marketplace such as asbestos, lead, mercury, formaldehyde, PFOAs, and PCBs. Programs include the High Production Volume Challenge Program, Sustainable Futures, the Green Chemistry Program, Green Suppliers Network, the High Production Volume Challenge Program, Design for the Environment, and the Chemical Right-to-Know Initiative. Selects and implements control measures for new and existing chemicals that present a risk to human health and the environment. Oversees and manages regulatory evaluation and decision-making processes. Evaluates alternative remedial control measures under the Toxic Substances Control Act and makes recommendations concerning the existence of unreasonable risk from exposure to chemicals, including pesticides and fungicides.
