

To: Hupp, Sydney[hupp.sydney@epa.gov]
From: Cathryn Berger Kaye
Sent: Fri 3/31/2017 7:11:09 PM
Subject: A request for information

March 31, 2017

Greetings to Sydney Hupp,

I am seeking information and was referred to you when I called to register my complaint about pruit's reversal of the ban on chlorpyrifos. Can you please send me information about why -- substantiated science-based -- for this reversal.

According to the Environmental Working Group -- have you heard of them? They would be excellent for you to check out for reliable science-based information --

"small amounts of chlorpyrifos can damage parts of the brain that control language, memory, behavior and emotion. Multiple independent studies have documented that exposure to chlorpyrifos impairs children's IQs, and EPA scientists' assessments of those studies concluded that levels of the pesticide found on food and in drinking water are unsafe."

WOW -- That's pretty scary if you care about things like children and education and the planet. Yikes.

So I want information from YOUR OFFICE as to the reason this is GOOD for us. Please send to this email: Personal Email/Ex. 6 Please do this asap. I am alarmed. And I want your office to be accountable for the safety of children (and adults) and the planet. Reminder: you work for the Environmental PROTECTION Agency and the people of this country and that's me.

Thank you,
Cathryn Kaye

Ex. 6 - Personal Privacy