Dear Dr. Baetjer:

I apologize in deep humility for not having replied sooner to your letter of December 10. Perhaps you will realize from this kind of delay how difficult it would be for me to help you within any reasonable period of time, by looking over the further sections of your manuscript. I should love to do it, but I am afraid I must not take on anything more. When I look at my desk, I am appalled by the unfinished pile of work.

I have looked over the revised paragraphs, and I have no criticism of of them in their present form, nor any hesitation in agreeing to your quoting me if you wish.

I hope I have not caused you inconvenience by my delay.

With kindest regards,

Sincerely yours,

---

Robert A. Kohoe, M. D.
