"Caution" Notices

With reference to your letter of June 2nd and Mac's letter of June 10th, we have some questions to ask. A check of our supply of printed bags: we have a stock of OC-110 bags that will last 8 months, and a supply of OC-660 bags that should last 10 months. The latter item is one we just ordered and is without the caution notice.

Do we delay adding the notice until the bags are reprinted? This you plan to do with E-P packages? If the notice is to be added sooner, then the marking will cost us extra money; and if labeled, it could cost five times as much as stamped on the bag.

We await your comments.
