ENGINEERS OF HUMAN COMFORT

The Heating, Ventilating and Air Conditioning Engineer through his work and research brings to our homes, our offices and our factories, in both summer and winter, that climate best suited to our comfort and health, and he creates for our industries those atmospheric conditions which improve quality of product and speed production.

He is truly an Engineer of Human Comfort and a public benefactor.

It was in 1894 that a small group of nationally known engineers, educators, and manufacturers organized the A.S.H.V.E. for the express purpose of improving the Art through the interchange of ideas and stimulation of scientific research and invention.

In 1894, it was agreed that the great art of heating and ventilating deserved and required recognition as an essential, distinctive and highly specialized division of modern engineering. These men realized the basic importance of heating and ventilating as the primary element in the well-being of civilized mankind, living and working mostly indoors.

These keen, alert, progressive men knew that the methods and equipment of their day could be improved even beyond their own vision if all the personalities striving for such improvement could be welded into one organized cooperative group, imbued with the same ideals and set toward the same goal. So they formed themselves into the nucleus of such an organization and called it THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF HEATING AND VENTILATING ENGINEERS.

That the Charter Members had great faith in their enterprise is evident, although little did they dream that progress would be so rapid in their profession.

During the intervening years since that little group of 75 pioneers unfurled the banner of THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF HEATING AND VENTILATING ENGINEERS—3344 of the real leaders of thought and action in heating, ventilating, and air conditioning have gathered about that standard and carried it proudly before them far along the way of real accomplishment. They may be identified among engineering groups by the distinctive emblem which was adopted by the Charter Members.

The record of the Society's accomplishments is a long and brilliant one, yet it must be placed but a small part of the real achievement which the Society has inspired both among its members and the many non members whose work it has influenced. Rewarding the efforts of its founders, who gave unstintingly of their time and means, the Society has been tremendously effective in the advancement of the Art and Industry through its many fold activities.

A.S.H.V.E. MILESTONES

- 1894 Organization meeting September 10, at Broadway Central Hotel, New York, with 75 Charter Members.
- 1895 First Annual Meeting, January 22-24 at 12 West 31st Street, New York. Incorporation under laws of New York State, TRANSACTIONS established.
- 1896 Society Emblem adopted at 2nd Annual Meeting—Dr. J. S. Billings, First Honorary Member.
- 1897 First Semi-Annual Meeting held at the Windsor Hotel, New York, June 18.
- 1906 First Chapter organized in Chicago.
- 1907 Membership reached 301.
- 1911 Membership totaled 405. New York Chapter formed. Society established Headquarters in Engineering Societies Building, 29 West 39th Street, New York.
- 1915 Journal first published in April as a quarterly; later issued monthly.
- 1916 Full time Secretary employed.
- 1918 Members in Armed Services—64.
- 1919 After several years of consideration and planning the Society established its Research Laboratory, in the United States Bureau of Mines, at Pittsburgh, Pa., having determined a preliminary modus operandi and provided an operating fund. The Society is justly proud that it is the only professional engineering organization which maintains and operates its own Research Laboratory.
- 1922 The A.S.H.V.E. GUIDE published in September.
- 1923 Comfort Zone Established by A.S.H.V.E. Research.
- 1925 Dues raised to $25.00 and 40 per cent of dues of members and associates allocated to Research Fund.
- 1927 Membership of Council increased from 12 to 17.
- 1928 Appointment of Technical Secretary and completion of Code for Minimum Requirements for Heating and Ventilation of Buildings. Benjamin Franklin honored as Patron Saint of Society.
- 1929 Journal incorporated as a Special Section of Heating, Piping and Air Conditioning. Society Headquarters moved to 51 Madison Ave.
- 1930 Endowment created by Thornton Lewis for the F. Paul Anderson Medal. First International Heating and Ventilating Exposition held in Philadelphia.
- 1932 First Award of F. Paul Anderson Medal to W. H. Carrier.
- 1933 New Constitution and By-Laws adopted—Membership dues reduced.
- 1936 Membership passed 3000.
- 1941 Society requested to do Research for U. S. Navy.
- 1943 Membership at all-time high, 3300—Chapter with largest Charter Membership organized in Indianapolis.
- 1944 Members serving in Armed Forces—332.

HOW TO APPLY FOR MEMBERSHIP

The real accomplishments of life are usually measured by the service one has rendered to his fellows and the true cultural refinement of mind, the finest sense of personal and professional ethics, factors transcending all material elements in what man calls "success," are developed through association with those of high ideals and cherished ambitions in the same field of activity. THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF HEATING AND VENTILATING ENGINEERS offers to him whose work is definitely within its province an opportunity for such association and an opportunity for real service to his profession.

Every man in the heating, ventilating and air conditioning profession needs the Society—

- 1—Because of the contacts that it brings through national and local meetings.
- 2—Because of the information supplied by Society Publications.
- 3—Because of the opportunities that research reveals in new applications for engineering services and equipment.
- 4—Because of the satisfaction to be derived in contributing to human comfort and well being.

A Candidate must make application on the printed form "Membership Application" which is available at the headquarters office or from Chapter Officers and members. A statement of qualifications and engineering experience is required and four members must act as sponsors except under certain conditions noted in Article B-III of the By-Laws.

Initiation Fees for 1944 are: Members and Associate Members $10.00; Junior Members $5.00. The Initiation Fee must accompany application.

For 1944 the annual dues of the Society are: Members and Associate Members

$18.00; Junior Members $10.00; and Student Members $3.00. Dues of new members are pro-rated on a quarterly basis.

ARTICLE C-II—MEMBERSHIP

Section 1. Persons connected with the arts and sciences related to heating, ventilating or air conditioning are eligible for admission into the Society.

Section 4. A Member shall be over thirty (30) years of age and shall have more than eight (8) years' experience in the sciences relating to the arts of heating, ventilating or air conditioning. He shall have been in active practice of his profession and in responsible charge of important work for four (4) years, consisting of design, construction, research, development or teaching, and shall be qualified to design or direct such engineering work.

Section 5. A Junior Member shall be a person over twenty (20) years and under thirty (30) years of age, who has had three (3) years' experience in the sciences relating to the arts of heating, ventilating or air conditioning. Each successfully completed year in an engineering school may be considered equivalent to one (1) year of such work.

Section 6. An Associate Member shall be twenty-five (25) years of age or over. He need not be an engineer, but must have been so connected with some branch of engineering or the art of heating, ventilating, air conditioning or the industries relating thereto, that he may be considered as qualified to co-operate with heating and ventilating engineers in the advancement of professional knowledge.

Section 7. A Student Member shall be a person between the ages of 18 and 25 years, who is regularly attending courses in an engineering college or technical school at the time of applying for membership.

FOUNDING OF THE A. S. H. V. E.

The organization of a Society of heating and ventilating engineers was first talked of by Hugh J. Barron and L. H. Hart in the early summer of 1894.

On August 2, 1894, a group of 15 men met at the office of Heating and Ventilation, 146 World Bldg., New York, and a committee of 5 was chosen to effect an organization.

The first meeting was called at 3:00 P.M., September 10, 1894, at the Broadway Central Hotel and temporary officers were elected: F. P. Smith, Chairman; and L. H. Hart, Clerk. The roll call showed that 75 persons had become Charter Members. It was voted that the name of the organization should be THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF HEATING AND VENTILATING ENGINEERS and a Constitution and By-Laws were adopted. The following were elected to hold office until the 1st Annual Meeting, January 22-24, 1895: President, E. P. Bates, Syracuse, N. Y.; First Vice-President, W. M. Mackay, New York, N. Y.; Second Vice-President, W. F. Wolfe, Boston, Mass.; Third Vice-President, Chas. S. Onderdonk, Philadelphia, Pa.; Treasurer, Judson A. Goodrich, New York, N. Y.; Secretary, L. H.
