YOUR REF.

3rd June, 1970.

L Dear Dr. Kehoe,

I enclose copy of an article which has been prepared for publication in the British Journal of Industrial Medicine, relating to studies undertaken during 1968/69 in Manchester University on the intake and output of lead in normal individuals. You may remember that I did mention to you some two year's ago that The Associated Octel Company was proposing to sponsor such study at Manchester in the Department of Occupational Health under the direction of Professor Scott.

The author, who is a young scientist and gained her Ph.D from the work involved in this article, has advised me that she would be very happy for you to comment on her findings, and I myself would be very pleased to know what you think of these.

The flyrod, over which you have been subjected to so much inconvenience, has not as yet arrived with us, but should be doing so any day now.

With kindest regards to you both.

Yours sincerely,

P.S.I.
