Nothing yet. Their 3 month deadline is approaching, but I'm sure that it means nothing.

Anything further on this?

If I understand what's being done its all at the secondary outfall & a matter of splitting samples. My first thought is it would be good to have them here when there is nothing going to secondary from our standpoint anyhow.
If they planned to be in the March 4 to 11 period I'd hold them off to week of March 14.

Have we or Hayes found out anything more about the timing of this visit as yet? Makes for another good reason to work out problems we've seen lately at the secondary.

No. What's your feelings about them being here during turnaround; i.e. should we try to delay this?

Attached for your info. I'll keep you informed on anything else I get on this related to timing.

Although they don't talk about inst. calibration, or file records, etc. please be sure we're up to standard in all these areas also in case they surprise us.
