Subject: RE: 2018 DRI Toxic Tort and Environmental Law Seminar

Nancy,

Attendees include about 300 people - a mixture of outside environmental regulatory lawyers and defense-oriented toxic tort litigators; in-house counsel from various chemical and manufacturing companies; and consultants and expert witnesses from various specialties. The manuscript just a few pages summarizing the topic discussed and it is just included in the course materials that the attendees are provided. We can work with other members on the panel if EPA does not want to take a position.

Thanks.

Thanks Tim,

Can you provide me with a bit more information regarding:

- 1) Who typically attends this meeting
- 2) What type of written manuscript you are looking for and what it would be used for.

I need to run requests through our legal shop, so the more info I have to get ahead of their questions the better.

Regards,
Nancy

Tim,

The seminar is March 1-2 at the Nashville Grand Sheraton Downtown. We could be flexible with Nancy's schedule as to the date and time of her presentation, but it is tentatively scheduled for the morning of Friday March 2nd. We are also flexible with the topic, but the general idea would be a panel discussion about the potential impacts of TSCA re-evaluation of chemicals in toxic tort cases. She would also be asked to submit some sort of written manuscript.

DRI would cover registration, two nights at the hotel, up to $500 in airfare.

Attached is a brochure from last year's conference so she sees the typical topics.
