Hi Sydney! You wouldn't happen to have anything before 1pm would you? If not 3pm works—we just may have a change in attendees. But Rajeev will definitely be joining.

Thanks so much for responding!

Hi Amy,

Thank you so much for following up! My apologies for the delay, I somehow missed Ryan's email about this. So it looks like the 11:30 time slot you suggested on June 28th we actually have a meeting over at the White House that we can't reschedule. Could we potentially look at the afternoon? Maybe around 3PM?

Thank you!

Good morning Sydney,

Hope all is well. Ryan had noted this was confirmed and to check in with you on timing. We are available any time in the morning, preferably around 11:30am so they can fly in that morning for the meeting. Would that work for Administrator Pruitt? If not, just let us know what works.

Thank you so much for all your help!!

Best,

Amy

Ryan and Mandy,

Hope all is well. I'm sure things are busy over there given yesterday's announcement.

We were hoping Administrator Pruitt might have some time to meet Honeywell's Performance Materials and Technologies CEO, Rajeev Gautam, and Honeywell's General Counsel, Kate Adams, on June 28th? We are eager to give him an overview on our business and specifically talk about the Significant New Alternatives Policy (SNAP) program and SNAP rules, Montreal Protocol and greenhouse gas emissions and fuel economy standards for light-duty vehicles.

Please let me know if timing works and if you need anything more from my end.

Best,

Amy

Could you try to get an answer back to CEI today so they can move on if he cannot do this one?

Thank you!

You'll need to ping her at this point. I've sent it on and recommended that he do it.

Hey there - Circling back. Any word on when Mr. Pruitt may be able to make a decision? Just looking for any intel you might have. Our event planners are really pushing us to look at other options for keynotes because we're getting down to the wire, but we'd really like to hold out for your boss. Any advice on a timeline for him? I can also ping Michelle Hale if you're crazy busy.

Thanks so much—really appreciate the help!

No problem and that would be amazing! We just can't send out invites without a keynote, so if Mr. Pruitt isn't available then we'll really have to hustle.

I can only imagine how busy you guys are right now. Speaking of, what's your new role at EPA? The CEI team is very happy for you!

Hi Annie. I'm so sorry for the delay. I'll put this in front of him tomorrow.

Hi Samantha,

First off, congratulations! I heard you landed over at the EPA, is that right?

I wanted to follow-up on an invitation (attached) that CEI President Kent Lassman extended a few weeks ago for Mr. Pruitt to be our keynote speaker at CEI's Annual Dinner and Reception in June. We're running up against a deadline as we need to send out invitations for this event as soon as possible. Do you know when we might hear back on Mr. Pruitt's availability? Feel free to let me know if there is someone else we should touch base with on this. We really want to make this work!

As Kent said previously, we would love to have Mr. Pruitt as our speaker—he is our top choice. As you probably know, the CEI dinner hosts nearly 1,000 of CEI's strongest supporters, including senior level policy professionals, distinguished scholars, business executives, agency officials, members of Congress and their staff. CEI and our supporters care deeply about energy and environment issues and given Mr. Pruitt's legal and intellectual background, we are looking forward to helping him reach his goals as the new EPA administrator. We believe this event would provide Mr. Pruitt a powerful platform in a friendly environment.

More details about the dinner can be found here. Previous dinner speakers include Steve Forbes, Carly Fiorina, and Paul Ryan.

I'm sure things are crazy right now, but if you have any guidance on this, we'd really appreciate it. Thank you!

Annie
