coached by the women's physical education department and who tried the basketball floors in the halls of Bul Chivers, an alumnus and professional square-dance caller. Master of ceremonies for this part of the show was Dave Ketchum.

After the gymnasium lights had been dimmed to indicate the passage of 50 years, Art Linkletter, another alumnus and nationally-known radio entertainer, took over as master of ceremonies. The College's drum majorettes danced, and the audience of more than 2,000 was led in singing the College songs. Phyllis Barker Burns, an alumna who has starred in Civic Opera Association shows, also sang.

Linkletter presented a public address system to the College during the show. Dean of Men C. E. Peterson, who started Linkletter out on his College career as his adviser, accepted on behalf of the school. Introduced at the show were Dr. E. L. Hardy, former President of the College, and Mrs. George Meierken, a member of the School's first graduating class in 1900.
