Subject: Change in designation of Hopeman Brothers Contact Adhesive.

Dear Howard:

We have been advised by Pierce & Stevens Chemical Corporation, distributors of Hopeman Brothers Adhesives, that Hopeman Brothers has no further interest in products previously produced as Hopeman Brothers Adhesive #701, Hopeman Sizing Compound #702, and Hopeman Reducer #701-R. The firm has requested that we avoid the use of the name Hopeman Brothers in referring to the above and that they will be redesignated as follows:

P. & S. Contact Adhesive	C-9327
P. & S. Sizing Compound	A-8868
P. & S. Reducer	P-5104

The above is the contact adhesive which we are now using for field application of ER Micarta and Standard Micarta to cement asbestos board according to directions on the UL label. There has been no change in the adhesive. The only change is in the designation.

Underwriters' Laboratories is revising the procedure for listing, and has advised us we have our choice as to how we want to handle the labeling. We could scrap all the old labels and order new ones, and UL will give credit for service charge on any labels returned for destruction; however, it would take some time to get new labels manufactured. As an alternative, and one which seems to make the most sense, we could use the old labels provided that the old designation is deleted and the new designation added by some permanent ink stamping. An indelible ink should be satisfactory for this purpose and then when new labels are ordered, you could change to the proper designation.

The UL Engineering Department has already begun the revisions of procedure and listing text and have advised that the factory should commence this remarking now.

Howard — mine looked at this and it'll be one h— of a job on the stock of labels we have. I recommend printing new ones & returning these.
