MET-87

3026. Dr. Lanza's unpublished 1932 Report on his study of the Manville, New Jersey, plant workers revealed that 327 of the 1140 workers evaluated -- 29% -- had signs of asbestosis. (The report labeled positive x-ray results for workers exposed to asbestos only at Manville "asbestosis", and called positive x-rays for those who had worked in dusty conditions before their Manville employment "pneumoconiosis"). Forty-three asbestosis cases were found in the Pipe Covering and Cement Departments: The report noted that those departments had the "highest percentage of asbestosis cases". Additionally, the report showed asbestos disease among a broad range of workers, including many in jobs which Manville classified as having no exposure to dust, including two machinists (Case Nos. 110 and 321), two steamfitters (Case Nos. 129 and 130), five packing and shipping department workers (Case Nos. 80, 88, 108, 172 and 183), a pipefitter (Case No. 312), a watchman (Case No. 319), a millwright (Case No. 324), a glove department worker (Case No. 185), and an outside laborer (Case No. 220). In addition, cases were found among those working in the departments where finished materials like firefelt, magnesia, or superex (materials containing only a minority percentage of asbestos) were cut and sawed (Case Nos. 25, 149, and 199 respectively). These findings, however, were never published.

FACTORY EXAMINATION AT NEW HAVEN, CONNECTICUT

Newville, New Jersey.

At a conference held at General Headquarters, it was decided to conduct chest examinations on 600 employees taken at random from different parts of the factory.

It was recommended by Dr. Fellows of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. that examinations be made by X-ray and fluoroscope. It was later decided that this examination include all employees at Newville factory.

An X-ray and fluoroscope were installed on February 22nd, 1932. Test work on employees was started on Feb. 24th. The services of Dr. F. C. Sabatello, on recommendation of Dr. Fellows, were obtained for the fluoroscopic examinations and supervision of the general examination of employees, which also included X-ray, some physical examinations of chests, and histories. Dr. Sabatello was assisted by Mr. Fethenauer, who acted as technician and took all the X-rays of employees' chests. The histories were taken by Miss Weiss, who was thought best fitted for the task because of her intimate connections with most of the families of the employees and her knowledge of most of their past histories. No specific reason was given to employees for the examination, except the general understanding that it was a "general health survey".

On recommendation of Dr. Lamm of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. contact was made with Dr. Verloether, Surgeon in Charge, U. S. Bureau of Mines, Picher, Oklahoma, to interpret the X-rays taken.

An examination card was made up to include fluoroscopic record, history record, as well as standard physical examination for employment in order to make one complete physical record. An X-ray card was made up to send with each X-ray film to Dr. Verloether for him to record his interpretations. This was done for the purpose of having only one record of the X-ray interpretations.

Employees to be examined were selected by the Personnel Department. Each employee was summoned to appear at the Plant Dispensary by appointment. On arrival, his complete record of employment, injuries and illnesses, past and present, were obtained by Miss Weiss by means of leading questions appearing on the examination card. The employee was then prepared for examination and an X-ray and Fluoroscope examination made. On the X-ray film was inscribed the employee's clock number for the purpose of identification. Physical examinations of cases with positive Fluoroscopic findings were made by Dr. Schatello. The Fluoroscopic findings were recorded directly on the card by Dr. Schatello. The positive cases that had a previous employment history of a dust occupation were called "Pathologic" (which is the general, non-specific, term for a dust infection of the lungs). The positive cases that had no previous dust history were called "Asthenic".

The X-rays with a card attached bearing only the employee's clock number, and not his name, were sent direct to Dr. Kertinther. This card also contained the past dust history of the employee.

It was originally intended that only 500 of the employees be examined, but the results of the first 500 examined were so impressive that it was decided to examine all factory employees, the total examined being 1144.

The examination period was from February 14th to May 10th, 1933, and an average of 100 employees a week was examined.

A list was then made from the records of X-ray interpretations, Fluoroscopic findings, past employment history, and Janville Factory employment history.

An individual case history record was made of the positive cases, using the X-ray as a basis for positive. From this individual case history record, four reports were compiled as follows:-

- (1) Comparative record by stages of X-ray and Fluoroscope.
- (2) Location of these cases in the plant by departments.
- (3) Record of inside and outside dust exposures.
- (4) Period of plant exposure and period of coal mining exposure, the latter being chosen because it proved to be the outstanding past employment history.

RECOMMENDATIONS

- (1) Outright rejection of any new applicants with five years or more of coal mining history.
- (2) Careful chest examination of all new applicants with less than five years coal mining history.
- (3) Outright rejection of all new applicants with ten years of previous textile dust history, foundry history, cement work, pottery, cotton dust, glass grinding or any dust occupation. Careful chest examination of all with less than ten years dust history.
- (4) Outright rejection of all new applicants with any suspicion of T. B.
- (5) Best improved methods of dust elimination with rigid enforcement of the use of respirators where necessary.
- (6) Proper warning to employees of unnecessary exposure to dust.
- (7) Periodic X-ray examination of employees exposed to dust.
- (8) Outright purchase of the X-ray equipment used in the examination, for periodic examinations.
- (9) Magnification of present cases.
