Next week, the revision of the F-Gas Regulation will be voted on in the European Parliament. In recent weeks, ASERCOM has worked together with EPEE and Eurovent to develop a common position for the entire HVAC&R industry. We have contributed our technical expertise to this process and now we are all campaigning together for regulation with a good sense of proportion.

Have you already registered for the ASERCOM Convention (ASERCOM members also for the General Assembly and the Working Group Meetings)? If not, you should do so quickly. Don't miss the chance to get information on the current regulatory proposals on the F-Gas Regulation, the Ecodesign Directive and the current developments on the ban of PFAS under REACH.

See you all in Brussels!

Best regards

President

ASERCOM REGULATORY UPDATE

Common ASERCOM, EPEE and Eurovent position on the refrigeration product bans

Together with Eurovent and EPEE, the voice of the refrigeration, air-conditioning and heat-pump industry in Europe, ASERCOM, the European Association of Component Manufacturers for the HVAC&R Industry, has issued an agreed position on the phase down of F-gases in refrigerants. “ASERCOM is the technical authority of the refrigeration and air conditioning component manufacturers. We have analysed thousands of data sets and many findings around technical feasibility and technological advancement in the HVAC&R industry,” says ASERCOM President Marco Masini. “Now we are counting on the EU Parliament to use this science-based foundation to make decisions that effectively advance the decarbonisation of Europe.”
