Dear Dr. Georgiadis:

Enclosed is a copy of a NIOSH-supplied listing of Trade Names with Carcinogenic Hazards. This information was furnished us as a result of our inquiry into the use and composition of Santoflex 13; an inquiry which was the basis of my letter of 14 July 77 to Dr. Ballou.

As reported to me in a telephone conversation with Mr. Dave Sundin of NIOSH, the early listing of Santoflex 13 as containing 4-Aminodiphenyl was in error. That entry should have listed 4-Aminodiphenylamine. This information was what I passed along to you in a subsequent telephone conversation.

It was my understanding from Mr. Sundin that NIOSH was preparing an errata sheet which he would provide us. Instead, the enclosed correspondence makes no reference to any error, rather the listing contains no entry for the subject material.

In any event, all evidence seems to indicate that Santoflex 13 does not contain a regulated material as originally believed. Accordingly, response to my letter of 14 July 77 to Dr. Ballou is not necessary as we plan no unusual activities regarding the use of Santoflex 13.

Sincerely,

Earl W. Arp, Jr.
Industrial Hygienist

Dear Mr. Arp:

Enclosed please find a list of brand name products containing specific ingredients as indicated. These products were identified during the field phase of the National Occupational Hazard Survey conducted 1972 - 1974. Since product formulations are modified periodically in many cases, current formulations may or may not correspond with those given by the manufacturers during the Trade Name Ingredient Clarification phase of NOHS.

Questions should be directed to 513/684-2723.
