n, Living Rooms

difficulty In new houses anned with wide open e trend is toward the nnecting with the living room although not actually a part of it. However, since there is no partition between the two rooms the opening view into the kitchen should be an eye-catcher.

An arrangement of this type requires considerable thought in planning the decorative scheme. The kitchen area should not only tie in with the living room scheme but should present just as an attractive and inviting appearance. There are many ways of doing this and by using a little imagination it can be quite simple.

If the living room is furnished in the contemporary manner, a streamlined kitchen fitted with all the latest equipment and gleaming chrome will tie in with the modern furnishings of the living room.

The kitchen adjoining the traditional room though planned for utility and modern convenience, should be subdued and unobtrusive in decor.

Combined with the casual, homey provincial living room the kitchen area can be treated almost as a definite part of the room itself.

Let the living room colors flow into the kitchen area with wallpaper that blends with the color scheme of the living room. If the theme of the living room is informal and chintz, cretonne or plaid is used for draperies, the same fabric can be repeated at the kitchen windows.

Match the linoleum or other hard surface floor covering used in the kitchen with the color of the living
