Dear Doctor Chapman:

Thanks for your letter of August 13, which came to my desk a few days before I returned from my vacation in Montana. Incidentally, I had a splendid vacation of fishing, horseback riding, walking and loafing, and accomplished what I wished above all to do, namely, to recover from a labyrinthitis which had been sapping at the roots of my ability to get things done for some time. I am virtually well and ready to get to work. That is a good thing, for there is quite an accumulation of things to be done, on my doorstep.

We or, at least, I shall be content to wait for the early completion of my editorial job, before undertaking to obtain a decision as to how it is to be dealt with. Something, I am sure, will depend on the volume of the material. I can only say that I do not think it would serve the best purpose of reproducing this material to split it into two or more issues. Much would be lost in the process, including the continuity which, I think, is necessary.

I should say to you, however, that I had considered that Mr. Mayo was referring to the cost of a separate issue when he spoke of costs, but to that matter, as well, we can give consideration at the proper time.

I fully agree with you that the sooner this series of papers is published, the better it will be for all concerned. I shall bend every effort toward that end.

Sincerely yours,

Robert A. Kehoe, M.D.
Professor Emeritus of Occupational Medicine
