Subject: EPA sends Clean Power Plan review to OMB

By Alex Guillén

EPA has sent its proposed review of the Clean Power Plan to the White House Office of Management and Budget for review, according to a notice on OMB's website.

The notice submitted Thursday gives no indication of the proposal's details, it is expected to seek to repeal the rule. Environmental and industry groups likely will flood OMB with meeting requests to make their cases for or against keeping the rule.

EPA Administrator Pruitt said last month that he has not yet decided whether to craft new climate rules. The lawsuit over the Clean Power Plan is on hold, and the court is mulling whether to keep it that way or remand the rule to EPA outright.

WHAT'S NEXT: OMB will spend the next several weeks or months reviewing EPA's proposal and meeting with interested parties before it is released.
