persons to become intimately in contact with this material, and we wished for the protection of all concerned, those workers and those people that they might interact with by carrying it out of that room. So it was a good idea from my perspective to want to sequester that room.

Q Because, in fact, you did air monitoring in that room, did you not, sir?

A We did at one point do some air monitoring in that room.

Q And when you did air monitoring of that asbestos pipecovering, that air monitoring came out to .01 fibers?

A That is right, but that wasn't the concern. The concern was whether or not these people would sit in there in their easy chairs and rub up against it and walk in the stuff that was loose on the floor and carry it out into the corridors, so it wasn't the air monitoring.

My point in doing this was even in the presence of all of this hanging stuff, the levels were
