Tate,
Happy to talk through logistics. We have a hard copy mailer that lists you as "invited" that is already at the mail house. That goes to NPMA members only.
We can definitely remove your name from anything online if you would prefer that.
My cell is

May I give you a call this AM to with a few more logistical '?'s? If there is a way you could not list my name on the agenda or promotional materials, it would be much appreciated.

Looking forward to hearing from you.

Hi Jim-

I'm honored to receive this invitation. Let me double check with our ethics official and get back to you. I am currently free that morning.

One quick question- is it open to the press?

Will circle back soon. Stay warm!

Tate

Dear Tate,

Thanks again for taking the time to meet with the NPMA team and our members in December. I hope you enjoyed the holiday season.

As we mentioned during our meeting, the National Pest Management Association is holding its annual Legislative Day Meeting on March 19, 2018. This conference typically draws about 400 owners and executives from pest management firms nationwide and will be held at the Capital Hilton, in Washington DC. It is designed to provide an opportunity for our members to meet directly with members of congress to speak about issues which concern their businesses. One of the topics that we are interested in learning more about is how Federal regulatory reform efforts will impact the structural pest management industry.

I am writing to invite you to participate in a panel discussion on March 19th from 9:15-10:15 AM, titled:

The Impact of Pesticide Regulatory Reform on Structural Pest Management Industry
In March 2017, EPA Administrator Pruitt issued a memorandum establishing the EPA Regulatory Reform Task Force in response to President Trump's Executive Order 13771: Enforcing the Regulatory Reform Agenda, which is designed to reduce the regulatory burdens agencies place on the American people. Since then, EPA has held public meetings and invited written and verbal comment from stakeholders who are directly impacted. Concurrently, NPMA has begun working on its Pesticide Regulatory Reform Agenda focusing on overcoming challenges that directly impact the pest management industry. In this session, learn what EPA and Industry are doing to work together to find solutions.

We are also inviting Ray Starling, and Rick Keigwin. Thanks and I look forward to hearing from you at your earliest convenience,

-Jim
