Hi Ernesta,

Can I please get more information about the EPA red & blue teams?

What's the latest?

Have red teams members been chosen?

If so, by what criteria?

Have any blue team members been chosen?

What are these teams debating, exactly, that hasn't already been debated in the scientific literature of the last 120 years (since Arrhenius)?

Thanks,

David

EPA,

Hello. I'm an independent journalist doing research for an article in Slate magazine. My deadline is Monday July 17th.

Do you have any information on the Red and Blue teams Scott Pruitt talked about recently?

Any information on how the teams will be selected?

When the selection process will begin?

Who is being considered for the respective teams?

Will team members come necessarily from government agencies?

How the debate between the two teams will work?

Will the Red team propose questions to the Blue team, as I've heard may be the case?

What if the teams can't reach agreement?

Anything you can share would be useful.

Thank you,

David
