GIRLS REED AS MISSING TWINS

SAN DIEGO, April 30.—Not twins not even sisters, yet Viola Buhrman, 16, and Frances Burke, 17, both of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, peered through jail bars before they convinced the San Diego police that their stories were true.

Viola and Frances grew tired of life as passed in Cedar Rapids and proceeded to hitch hike their way to the far west, trusting they would arrive topside.

And so they did until San Diego police looked them over.

"Which is which and who is who with you twins"? demanded a grizzled veteran of the department.

"Honest, Mister, we ain't twins," they responded but the story was not sufficiently convincing so far as the dignity of the San Diego law was concerned until wires had established the amusing misses' identities.

ents of fusionists will build up against the administration.

WHALEN TO BE TARGET

The conduct of the Rothstein case has brought the charge that the affair has been conducted in rather farcial manner from the beginning. A scrubwoman was locked up as a witness for a few months but nothing much happened besides that. In the meantime Rothstein's chest of personal papers is a careful guarded pandora's box, the contents of which probably will never be revealed.

Grover A. Whalen, Mayor Walker's fire and brimstone police commissioner, will be one of the first targets of the fusionists. The commissioner started out like a tornado smashing and eliminating this and that and announcing that he was going to put the "crime breeding speakeasies out of business." By his own figures, he has wrecked all but 32,000 of them. The usual political ammunition is at hand in the charges of extravagence and rapidly mounting annual budget.
