also told me it did not negate your life-long stand that when you found something of real importance to the public health (including plant employee health) you would publish it. This is 10 years and it is important data.

Ed and I are working up some stuff for your symposium and for an AAAS symposium this winter. We feel very stymied indeed not to be able to use the worlds best data on clinical aspects, especially since I did some of it as did Ed.

We would like to use some of the data from those reports giving due credit to Kettering Laboratory, and if they want it, to ALCOA. If they don't want to be mentioned and we can use it simply as unpublished data courtesy of Kettering Laboratory that would be helpful. How about it?

Sincerely yours,

Bill
