

son in Farm Journal. It comes from C. L. Hamilton of the National Safety Council in Chicago. Don't slam in the clutch and gun your tractor when you're stuck, says Hamilton. That's what has happened many times when you've read about deaths of farmers killed when working with tractors.

Above all, if your back wheels are dug down in mud or sand, don't chain a post or pole to them in front and expect to climb out. That's almost pure suicide, says Hamilton.
