OK, no problem on my end, Barbara.

Thanks,
Scott

Dear Scott

An update we are in an oversold situation on registrations relative to the number of available seats in the space we reserved for the October 24 workshop at GW. This factor, coupled with a broader scope agenda than originally envisioned, has forced us to make a tough decision and that is to postpone the Workshop and merge it into the Group's larger 2018 Symposium program. The Group's Symposium is a major program held every 2 years. We will be contacting all concerned (speakers; registrants; others) relative to this change over the next few days. Hopefully, we can come back to you with details when available in the hope that you can participate in the 2018 Symposium, but given the constraints outlined, you are now free to clear the October 24 date for other activities. We apologize for any inconvenience this has or may cause.

On other matters, I am currently trying to clear three alternate meeting dates relative to the followup to our recent telephone conversation. I am still waiting on one company but will hope to be in touch very soon to see if we can confirm a mutually convenient date/time to meet.

Many thanks.

Regards, Barbara
