...Planning is also important in selecting the border and feature strips of linoleum on the floor and on counter tops.

Conversation requires that sufficient chairs be placed close enough together, and faced in the right way, so that a reasonable number of guests can talk to each other conveniently when seated. To meet reading requirements, chairs must be placed so that enough illumination is provided, both by daylight and at night. The writing function, of course, requires a desk.

HERE'S SIMPLE TEST

One test any home-maker can apply to her living room is to survey the scene immediately after guests leave. Are the chairs moved from the positions in which they were placed? Are tables shoved back out of the way or pulled closer to certain chairs? Is a floor lamp poorly placed in the first place.

It's a slick measuring rod—with limitations, of course. Allowances have to be made for special circumstances.

Color-Styling Made Easy With New Album of Tints as Guide

Color-styling a room with a paint brush often works miracles in a formerly drab home, yet is really a simple and relatively inexpensive operation, according to Chris Lausten, manager of the Maxwell Hardware Company's paint department.

And now it has been made simpler than ever by the arrival at the local paint store of a huge album of color photos which show hundreds of beautifully decorated rooms of all types in their actual colors.

The color-styling portfolio, which will be lent by the local paint store to local residents, illustrates color-styling rules with huge color photos of rooms styled by America's leading decorators. The illustration reproduced here—in black and white—is a typical kitchen made distinctive and appealing by the use of color.

Hundreds of living room, dining room and bedroom color schemes are also shown in the collection, as well as exterior color-styling photos.

The portfolio will be available for study by anyone planning to redecorate in the coming weeks.

Correlated colors don't have to stay in the front part of the house; they can come right out into the kitchen. Planning is also important in selecting the border and feature strips of linoleum on the floor and on counter tops.

CP Seal on Range Badge of Quality

It's your buying guide—the CP seal on a gas range. When you see it, you know that you need have no concern about quality or workmanship. You know that range has passed 22 standard tests more severe than any ever before devised for a kitchen range. The CP seal is your assurance of the superior performance of that range.

Balance Lighting Of Living Room

A living room should be balanced in lighting as well as in its furnishings. A strong light at one end of the room should be balanced by an equally strong lamp or a pair of smaller lamps at the opposite end.
