SUBJECT:

INSULATION

We are trying to obtain some cost data on the application of Block Type Insulation on 165, 245 and 335 Frame Turbines.

We have the possibility of having more than one condition facing you in the field. In the past these frames have not had the block-type insulation put on here at South Philadelphia. We are considering doing this now and therefore we are interested in field experience as far as cost is concerned.

As you know, on Supervision jobs we are supposed to ship material from here for installation by the customer. Several of these frames got out where we did not supply the block insulation from here and we asked you to buy it in the field. In these cases you should be able to give us cost of material.

In some cases on delivery and erect jobs you have contracted for material and labor to install insulation in the field. If you can break down the labor and material we would appreciate it.

There may also be some cases where we did furnish the insulation from here and you had to install it. If so, can you give us the labor cost?

This only applies to block type insulation.

Will any one of you having such data please let us hear from you promptly.
