SWP

is what people generally call

Sherwin-Williams Paint

It is these three letters on the can of Sherwin-Williams Paint that distinguishes it from the cans of ordinary paint. SWP is a real paint—a true brighten-up treatment for even the most weather-worn house. It is real because it has all the spreading, covering and protecting powers and all the durability that accurate mixing and thorough grinding can give to a paint.

Every ingredient in SWP passes the test of the Sherwin-Williams laboratory—the severest test in the paint world. Every gallon is made in accordance with the exact formula—the result of nearly fifty years' experience in good paint-making. Brighten up your home with SWP. It's economy.
