

through pores or cracks in the walls and into the basement. The remedy is to refill the trench with clean, carefully packed dirt. In extreme cases it may be necessary to install a tile drain at the bottom of the trench to carry off the water.

REDUCTION OF NOISES

Care in home planning will reduce materially many of the noises common to the home. Many squeaks, rattles, and other disturbances can be largely eliminated by having the house built on solid foundation. Closets placed between rooms cut down the penetration of sound. Soundproofing of walls is a direct and effective aid, while independent footings for boiler and air conditioner will further reduce noise. These precautions can be taken in the case of a home to be built, but in existing dwellings objectionable noises must be eliminated through repairs.

COVE-LIGHTING SYSTEM

Cove lighting derives its name from the curved molding near the ceiling line in which the lamps are concealed. It reflects light toward the ceiling, which results in an even illumination when properly designed.

In modernization of a home's lighting system, cove lighting may be substituted for the old type of central lighting fixture.

DURABLE COLOR SCHEME

A Colonial house in an eastern city preserves its well-groomed appearance in spite of smoky, soot-laden air with a color scheme which does not show soil easily. The foundation color and trim are pearl gray and the shutters a medium blue. The shingled roof is painted silver gray and the porch floor is stone gray.
