I've inquired about Gladwin Hill at the Times here and I'm told he's the NYT's own Ralph Nader on pollution (before you get panicky, let me say that's only a colorful way to describe him. He's their pollution expert as they have experts in other areas).

There's little if anything I can do here to determine what Mr. Hill is writing. His copy goes through the news desk and Sulzberger himself doesn't influence those people. I'm sure you've considered calling the man. Certainly you can do more to clear the air on a subject person-to-person than you can via the mails.
