Automated and Connected Vehicle Systems Testing Symposium

REGISTER NOW

Explore the future of connected and automated vehicles at the 2018 Automated and Connected Vehicle Systems Testing Symposium.

In cooperation with SAE International, a new event hosted by Clemson University, International Center for Automotive Research, gathers together the leading minds from a variety of fields across the automotive engineering industry. This is an opportunity to discuss the latest automated vehicle testing programs, data acquisition and analytics approaches, and research that will inevitably drive the industry forward to a fully connected and automated vehicle.

Technical experts will identify the inhibitors and enablers to bridge the gap between technologies and products in order to address the top challenges of automated vehicle use within the public transportation system. Session highlights include:

- 🕒 To Err is Human. Is Your Automated Vehicle Safer Than You?
- 🕒 Safe AV Benchmarking
- 🕒 What's next in Performance Testing and Evaluation of CAV Technologies?
- 🕒 To Augment Reality (or Not): A Quintessential Test & Validation.
- 🕒 Show Me the Money: Monetizing Vehicle Connections
