Kelly to Davis and Elwood Memo August 6
Pydraul 625

Dear John,

The objections North American had to the lubricity and some other functional properties of Pydraul you have dispelled.

The only hurdle remaining was comparative toxicity of Pydraul 625 and Cellulube 550. Dr. Kelly's referenced memo appears to remove that hurdle and in fact indicates that Cellulube 550 may be a little more irritating than Pydraul 625 and instead of looking for excuses we now have an actual sales advantage.

John, will you please see if this information on toxicity tests is completely satisfactory to the interested parties at North American. If they need anything else, please let us know.

We all certainly appreciate Dr. Kelly's offer to visit these people around October.

Incidentally, what is the latest estimate on the date for the sale of 20,000 gallons of fluid to North American?
