Welsh checks on pollution in quarries

[illegible] checking [illegible] for "undesirable [illegible]" [illegible] Llanwit Fardre [illegible] to [illegible] Welsh [illegible] yesterday.

[illegible] in the vicinity of [illegible] County and [illegible] [illegible] local [illegible] [illegible] there that chemicals have [illegible] adjoining land and a stream.

Functions of the investigation are likely to be co-ordinated in a report on chemical pollution surveys throughout Wales, the [illegible] said.

The Environmental Pollution Unit and the local government and health divisions of the Welsh Office are involved in the checks.

Cardiff Queen yesterday urged the Welsh Office to seal off the entire area surrounding Meaney Quarry because of a "hazardous level of contamination.
