INTRODUCTION

This booklet contains information on the formation, objectives, activities, organization, membership, and insignia of the American Industrial Hygiene Association.

FORMATION

The American Industrial Hygiene Association was formed in 1939 by leading industrial hygienists as a result of need for an association devoted exclusively to industrial hygiene by the rapidly increasing number of full-time industrial hygienists and others concerned with problems of industrial hygiene. This Association was not intended to replace the industrial hygiene activities of such Associations as the American Public Health Association, American Chemical Society, and American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, but rather to provide an organization that would embrace all activities related to industrial hygiene.

OBJECTIVES

The objectives of the Association as stated in the Constitution are:

1. To increase the knowledge of industrial hygiene through interchange and dissemination of information.
2. To promote the study and control of environmental factors affecting the health and well-being of industrial workers.
3. To correlate such activities as are conducted by individuals and agencies throughout industrial, educational and governmental groups.
4. To bring together persons interested in the various phases of industrial hygiene.

ACTIVITIES

Some of the activities in carrying out these objectives are:

- (1) Representation of industrial hygienists:—The Association speaks or acts for industrial hygienists in matters of general interest as:
 - (a) Dissemination of information on the fundamentals of industrial hygiene.
 - (b) Definition of the scope of industrial hygiene.

- (c) Development of nomenclature in industrial hygiene.
- (d) Improvement of the education, training, and status of industrial hygienists.
- (e) Solutions of problems of industrial hygiene in national and other emergencies, in part by encouraging the optimum use of available industrial hygienists and the training of new ones.
- (f) Cooperation with various organizations as the American Standards Association and governmental agencies in the preparation of various codes and approval schedules.
- (g) Presentation of awards to members of the Association for outstanding service in the field of industrial hygiene.

(2) Meeting: One meeting per year is held by the Association, and each of the Local Sections of the Association holds several meetings per year.

The knowledge of industrial hygiene is increased by the information presented in the carefully selected scientific talks on new discoveries and developments. Information is disseminated not only by these talks, but also by less formal discussions among individuals and groups, and by scientific and commercial exhibits of high quality.

The information disseminated and acquired at these meetings unquestionably encourages the study and control of environmental factors affecting the health and well-being of industrial workers, and aids in correlating the activities of various individuals and agencies.

A list of the annual meetings of the Association follows. These have been joint meetings with the American Association of Industrial Physicians and Surgeons and, in some instances, with other organizations as well. The National Conference of Industrial Hygienists joined the group in 1943 for its 6th annual meeting; the American Association of Industrial Nurses in 1944 for its 2nd annual meeting; and the American Association of Industrial Dentists in 1946 for its 3rd annual meeting. This practice of holding joint meetings has the advantage of providing opportunities for personal contacts and exchanges of information in closely related fields. The increase in the number of the cooperating associations is evidence of an increase in the popularity and recognition of the value of this practice. The number in attendance does not restrict appreciably the possible meeting places.

Some of the meetings of the Local Sections are held jointly with local sections of other associations such as the American Society of Safety Engineers and the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

Information on all annual meetings of the Association and on many of the meetings of the Local Sections is given in INDUSTRIAL MEDICINE and A. I. H. A. QUARTERLY.

Meetings of the Board of Directors of the Association are held at least twice a year. Information on these meetings is disseminated to members by special reports prepared by the Secretary.

(3) Publications: The AMERICAN INDUSTRIAL HYGIENE ASSOCIATION QUARTERLY is the official publication of the Association. This publication, which began a separate existence with the June 1946 issue numbered Volume 7 Number 2, is an outgrowth of the Industrial Hygiene Section of INDUSTRIAL MEDICINE. Original articles of general interest in the field of industrial hygiene and news of the Association and Local Sections are published in the QUARTERLY which is issued under the guidance of the Editorial Committee of this Association. Members receive this publication as one of their benefits of membership. One dollar of their dues goes to pay for their subscription. Subscription rate for non-members is two dollars per year.

The ARCHIVES OF INDUSTRIAL HYGIENE AND OCCUPATIONAL MEDICINE, formerly the JOURNAL OF INDUSTRIAL HYGIENE AND TOXICOLOGY, is an official publication of the Association. This journal publishes original scientific and technical articles, reviews of books, and abstracts of articles from other journals.

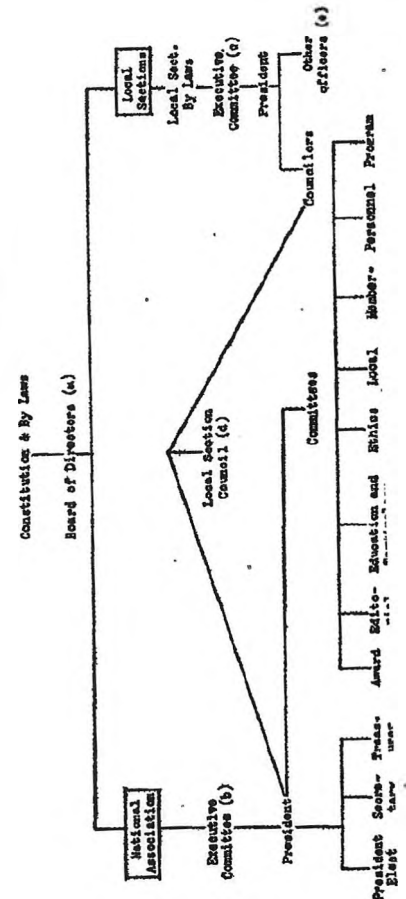

Members receive a discount on the subscription rate to INDUSTRIAL MEDICINE. Original articles, reports on meetings, news, and reviews of books are published in this journal.

Information on the duties of officers and committees, election of officers, and terms of officers, is given in the Constitution and By-laws.

The Treasurer's Report, as of March 12, 1949 shows a bank balance of $2874; investments in U.

ORGANIZATION

Below is a diagrammatic illustration of the association organization.

S. Savings Bonds, Series F and G, $5950; accounts payable, $34.

The table on page 8 contains information on Local Sections.

MEMBERSHIP

As stated in the Constitution in Article II, Section 1: "The Board of Directors may elect to membership in the Association reputable persons who have been engaged in some form of industrial-hygiene activity for at least three years and have been graduated from an accredited school of college grade or have had equivalent training. Graduate study may be accepted in place of part or all of the required period of industrial-hygiene activity."

On March 1, 1949, there was adopted a new membership application blank which explains in some detail the present interpretation of the membership requirements quoted above. A copy of this blank is available upon request from the Executive Secretary.

Any person having a professional interest in industrial hygiene may become an associate member of a local section, entitled to all the privileges of membership in the section except the right to become an officer or enjoy the privileges of the national Association. Application for associate membership in a local section should be made in writing, including the names of two members or associate members of that local section.

Table 1 shows the growth of the membership and the geographic distribution of the present members.

INSIGNIA

The insignia or emblem of the Association is shown on the front cover of this book. This design, submitted by Oliver G. Stam, was selected by the Board of Directors at the Annual Meeting in 1943 from designs submitted by various members.

The design essentially is a composite illustration of various (actual or symbolic) equipment used in such aspects of industrial hygiene as medical, chemical and engineering. The X-ray tube symbolizes medicine and physics; the retort, chemistry; and the blower, engineering.

Emblems in the form of gold-plated sterling silver pins and watch charms may be obtained from the Executive Secretary at the cost of $2.85 for the pins and $2.60 for the charms.
