day. The crashes killed four Americans and wounded six.

One of the helicopters was downed a mile north of the beseiged Green Beret outpost at Dak Seang, 290 miles northeast of Saigon.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said stepped-up terrorist incidents across the nation killed nine civilians and injured 56 others yesterday.

Seven civilians were killed and 48 wounded when a terrorist threw a grenade into a village market at My Hiep, 280 miles northeast of Saigon.
Two other civilians died and seven were wounded when a bus struck a mine 60 miles southwest of Saigon.

Spokesmen said U.S. warplanes flew 65 sorties yesterday around the camp at Dak Seang, many of them in support of South Vietnamese troops fighting the biggest battle of the 20-day siege.

has become more solid."

He said nearly one million persons demonstrated last Wednesday against U.S. Vietnam policies, but added there is little prospect of immediate change in the Administration's policy in Vietnam."

"We have been spending far too much time keeping the office operating, and not enough time doing what we are supposed to do — help to end the war," he said.
