Dear Mr. Schwab:

Thank you for your letter of November 11, 1972. I am pleased that you found our information on lead poisoning to be of interest. Unfortunately, I do not feel that the effects of lead on the central nervous system have been adequately discussed in any literature at present to recommend to you a reference in this area. It is true that there has been a great deal of speculation but all papers of which I am familiar with in this field are subject to a great deal of criticism and must be regarded as of little value.

Sincerely,

Jerome F. Cole, Sc.D.
