Jeff, for attribution, if needed, to "an EPA spokesperson," please:

The Agency is currently working on the Second Triennial Report to Congress and expects to deliver that report in the spring of 2018.

Cheers, R.

Not an imminent deadline, but if you could get back to me by later today or sometime tomorrow, that would be much appreciated.

Thanks

Hullo Jeff and pleased to make your acquaintance. Let me check.

I take it you're not on deadline, but just asking for planning purposes, correct?

Hi Robert,

I cover the Renewable Fuel Standard for the Oil Price Information Service and have in the past dealt with Christie St. Clair. I see you're handling the issue for EPA now. I wanted to check on the status of the required triennial report examining the environmental impacts of biofuels production. As you know, the EPA IG's Office in August issued a report saying the agency had failed to meet congressional requirements that it complete such a report every three years. The last was completed in 2011. In response, EPA said it would finalize the study by Dec. 31, 2017. Was that deadline met and if so, where can I get a copy of the report? If not, can you tell me when the agency believes it will be finished?

Thanks for your help,
Jeff
