When I returned to Oakland in January, I discussed the case with you. You immediately had an appointed physician go in to the hospital and review the record and his physical situation. You were then going to keep me informed. May we have an update report.

Since then, [redacted] has purportedly cracked a rib. Have you checked this one out? The x-rays taken (by our doctor and his) did not show any fracture up to the time he was hospitalized. Mr. [redacted] told a member of my staff last week that he would be several weeks yet recuperating. Please review this case to see if you need to have an appointed doctor look at the time element vs the purported injury. We are willing to furnish light work.
