Private provincial agencies

In many provinces of Canada, accident prevention associations exist under the law Some are concerned with the safety problems of a single industry Others comprise associations representing various industries, while others encompass all industry within the province Employers assessed under the Workmen's Compensation Act of the province become members

Industrial accident prevention in Canada is largely handled by the following groups

British Columbia

British Columbia Loggers' Association (Manager), 550 Burrard St, Vancouver British Columbia Lumber Manufacturers Association (Safety Director), 302 Forest Industries Bldg., 550 Burrard St,
