doing to approach industrial hazards.

Q But you would agree with me that a manufacturer, before it puts its products into the stream of commerce, should know the risks associated with that product, wouldn't you?

A Yeah, that is certainly a good idea.

Q Now, Dr. Kerby, you first started looking at the literature prior to 1965 sometime in 1979; is that correct?

A '78, late '78.

Q '78. And that was at the request of a lawyer who represented a company known as Keene Corporation, correct?

A That is correct.

Q And the gentleman's name was a Mr. Bosewick or Boswick?

A Bosewick.

Q Bosewick. Before you started to do your research or look at the medical articles, he gave you a list of articles, did he not, to take a look at?

A He gave me a list, which was entitled
