temporary livability while it smacks of Shaker ancestors. It, too, is constantly added to.

Now, a third demonstration of this designer's eloquent stand for top flight design in contemporary furniture is ready, the handsomest, most elegant and perhaps most novel of the three. The first contemporary furniture made by a manufacturer famous for period style cabinet making, it is outstanding for craftsmanship as well as high fashion. Chest units, such as the long hardwareless chest door. Two or three panels on each hide of a chest are hinged and fold back, screen fashion, to reveal trays, shelves and compartment within. Trays and shelves are interchangeable—they can be arranged to fit your possession and the room, which may be the living room, dining room or bedroom.

All doors close by means of special magnets—touch the right spot and the doors open. The insides of all pieces are finished in exactly the same way as the outside, and all are finished in the back so they may be free-standing rather than back to a wall. Any chest or cabinet can be a room dining chairs, one-piece for the backs and woven strips for the seats. Upholstered furniture shown with the new wood pieces are typified by the chair and small bench.

Adult Garden Class Meets Tuesday Night

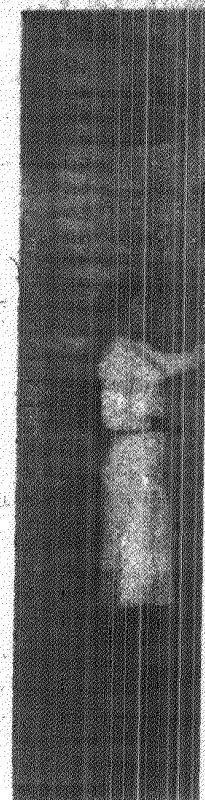

Fremont Union High School's first adult garden class of the season will provide a discussion and demonstration of Autumn gardening problems around the small home. The class will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Sunnyvale school.

Initial Fall duties in the garden, such as watering, cleaning and spraying, will be pointed out, according to L. A. Walzinger, lecturer on gardening. New home owners will be told how to deal with concrete chippings and other builders' debris often found next to foundations of houses. They also will learn how to combat pests that have multiplied during the Summer and which go into hibernation for the Winter.

On Tuesday, Oct. 7, the class will hear a discussion on how to make a good soil yield good garden crops. Emphasis will be given to local conditions for soil maintenance and soil improvement through drainage and physical conditioning by application of barnyard manure, compost, fertilizers, cover cropping and green manure.
