Dear Doctor Fairley:

It has been months since I received your last letter. In the fact that I planned to answer promptly, I have neglected many matters, which, in retrospect, do not appear as a laxity.

I am sending you, for whatever use it may be to you, a memorandum prepared some time ago by my associate as a consequence of our experience in dealing with tetraethyl lead poisoning. This may be of interest to you. I append it for your critical consideration.

I have had a communication from Dr. Blackburn, who has invited him to come out to see us. He appears to have the time for this as yet, but I hope he is able to do so. I have written to him and will undertake to make his stay as short as possible of my trips to New York, unless he is able to do so in less time. I have been sticking as close to my desk as possible because of a mountain of work that needs doing.

I had the very great pleasure of ^aprolonged visit with him, who is the medical officer to Associated Ethyl activities at Northwich, and in its general Branch activities. He has his hands full in carrying out his duties, has youth and energy, and I feel that his stay of a few months has given him very nearly all that we could give him in this time. I expect to remain in contact with him, and to maintain as active and interested as possible in the company elsewhere. For this, as well as for the pleasure I shall be pleased to hear from you whenever the opportunity move you to write.

With kindest personal regards,

Sincerely,

Robert A
