Attached is memorandum covering the notice that Air Reduction--Wilson Welder & Metals--will include in their electrode packages. Their attorneys consider it essential that some notice of this type be either enclosed in the package or displayed on the package. It has been suggested that the word "Attention" be used instead of the word "Warning".

Re: STATISTICS REGARDING VENTILATION IN ELECTRODES

Dear Mr. Reddie:

This is to notify you that we are discontinuing our practice, effective immediately, of the notification regarding ventilation which we have included in our boxes of electrodes.

This suggestion was discussed at considerable length at several Section meetings, and a standard clause was adopted to be used by all manufacturers.

I have just been advised by our Law Department that we should discontinue this practice. I believe this matter should come up for discussion at the next Section meeting.

Very truly yours,
