

RECD JAN 31 1974

Since the start up of our organics plant all of our employees have been monitored not only by physical examination annually but also by laboratory tests. These tests are the most sensitive known today and any abnormality would only indicate a possible problem. Whenever any abnormality is found the employee is advised accordingly.

At this time we have reviewed all of our vinyl employees' medical records and find no significant abnormalities. We will continue to monitor the health of all of our employees with further physical examinations and the most up to date laboratory techniques available.
