A Right.

BY MR. McGOWAN:

Q So 50 percent of the board of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation was composed of Owens-Illinois Glass people?

A Right.

Q Now, do you know for how long this continued in this relative percentage?

A As I remember, and I may not be accurate on the timing, along the line the government said this is a fine company and all, but our only problem in improving it is that we have got the making of a monopoly, we think that you ought to take the consent decree, which meant that you had to license people, show them, give them know-how and show them where to sell it, where to market it, you know, had to give free, not free licenses, but you had to give licenses for competitors or for whoever wanted one.

Of course, quite a few people wanted one. Johns-Manville, Libby Ownsford and a number of other people thought, well, what the hell, me, too, let's go
